

CHILD, YOUTH & FAMILY ADVOCACY PROJECT

To apply for a summer internship with the Child, Youth & Family Advocacy Project, you must be in your first or second year of law school. Please submit a cover letter, resume, and a writing sample, all in PDF form (and a transcript, if available). Your resume must reflect the law school you are currently enrolled in, to be considered for any summer program internship at Public Counsel.

In your cover letter, identify which team(s) described below you would like to work with. Discuss why you are interested in interning with Public Counsel generally and with Child, Youth & Family Advocacy Project specifically. Note that we are especially interested in receiving applications from historically underrepresented students consistent with our active, ongoing commitment to increasing equity and inclusion, and that we value lived experiences and experiences working with clients across a range of settings. Please consider addressing these topics in your cover letter, especially if not reflected in your resume.

If you would like to be considered for a summer internship with another project at Public Counsel, please submit a separate application to that project. Note, however, you can only be hired to work with one project during the summer program.

We strongly encourage you to submit your application no later than February 1.

The Child, Youth & Family Advocacy Project at Public Counsel is an interdisciplinary team of attorneys, social workers, and advocates that address a variety of civil legal needs for children, youth, and their families. Our summer interns gain hands-on experience in both direct service and policy advocacy.

ADOPTIONS

The Adoptions team provides representation to parents adopting children out of the Los Angeles County foster care system. The project, with the help of pro bono volunteers, completes adoptions for hundreds of children annually. In addition to completing the adoptions, the project conducts a comprehensive assessment and advocates to meet any unmet needs for benefits, Regional Center services, health care, mental health, and other services and supports to which the children are entitled.

What do student interns do in Adoptions?

Students who intern with Adoptions are trained to conduct client interviews remotely, identify gaps in services and/or benefits, and analyze legal issues pertaining to foster children in dependency and adoption proceedings. Students may also assist attorneys on adoption and benefits cases, conduct research on legal issues, and help draft advocacy materials for general distribution to adopting parents and/or pro bono attorneys.

GUARDIANSHIP

The Guardianship team runs a pro per guardianship clinic at the Stanley Mosk courthouse in downtown Los Angeles on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday from 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM. The clinic also conducts screening for other legal needs.

What do student interns do in Guardianship?

Students who intern with Guardianship are trained to conduct client intake interviews, navigate the legal software used to complete the required legal forms, and explain the relevant law and court procedures to pro per litigants. Students are also offered the opportunity to observe court hearings.

KEEPING FAMILIES TOGETHER/PREVENTIVE LEGAL ADVOCACY (PLA)

The PLA team works with families who are at risk of separation due to immigration enforcement or due to the family policing system. We directly represent parents facing separation in family law, probate, and domestic violence court cases, as well as provide advice and advocacy to parents facing child protective services investigations related to allegations of abuse or neglect. We also engage in policy advocacy at the local, state, and federal levels to seek changes to the systems that entrap families and force separations that reverberate across generations.

What do student interns do in PLA?

Students who intern with PLA are trained to conduct intake interviews, evaluate the issues on each case, draft pleadings, and conduct legal research to support our direct services work and policy advocacy. Students, under attorney supervision, will be able to assist the client directly in resolving issues, and will observe court hearings, and may have opportunities to appear in court if certified.

ADVOCACY FOR TRANSITION AGE YOUTH (TAY)

The TAY team is a multidisciplinary team that provides legal and social work services to youth ages 16 to 26 who are or were in foster care. The team advocates for youth in the areas of tickets, housing, rights for expectant and parenting youth, family law advocacy, restraining orders, name change and/or gender marker correction petitions, and accessing government benefits. Our direct representation guides our work at a local and statewide level to challenge and change the child welfare system. The TAY team also conducts training to transition age youth and community-based organizations on legal issues affecting these youth.

What do student interns do in TAY?

Students who intern with TAY are trained to conduct intake interviews with youth, evaluate the issues on each case, and conduct legal research to support our direct services work, impact litigation, and policy advocacy. Students, under attorney supervision, will be able to assist the youth directly in resolving issues.

Public Counsel is a nonprofit public interest law firm dedicated to advancing civil rights and racial and economic justice, as well as to amplifying the power of our clients through comprehensive legal advocacy. Founded on and strengthened by a pro bono legal service model, our staff and volunteers seek justice through direct legal services, promote healthy and resilient communities through education and outreach, and support community-led efforts to transform unjust systems through litigation and policy advocacy in and beyond Los Angeles.
